

Planning

- Provide Participants with Knowledge, Skills And & Positive Attitude Toward planning as a management function.

OBJECTIVE

TEXTSTUDIO

- At the end of this lecture, all participants will be able to:

1. Define key terms.
2. Discuss importance of planning.
3. Identify types of planning.
4. Recognize characteristics of effective plan.
5. Apply steps of planning.
6. Differentiate between planning tools.
7. Develop positive attitude toward planning as a management function.

outline

Planning

- It is the process of deciding in advance what should be done, how, when, where and by whom it will be done.
- It is the basic management function that predetermines what will be done, when, how, and by whom. It is an intellectual process that determines the goals of an organization and develops the various ways in which the organization can achieve those goals. Record exactly how to achieve a goal.

Importance of planning

- 1. It leads to success in achieving goals and objectives.
- 2. It gives meaning to work.
- 3. It provides for effective utilization of available personnel and facilities.
- 4. It helps in coping with crisis situations.
- 5. It is cost effective.
- 6. It is based on past and future, thus helping reduce the element of change.
- 7. It can be used to discover the need for change.
- 8. It is needed for effective control.

Types of plan

Types of plans

Strategic plan

It is a long-term plan

(5-10 years)

includes the overall organizational goals &
objectives

Tactical plan

It is concerned with the implementation of the strategic plan

(1-3 years)

Operational plan

Day-to-day Plan

Directed towards the fulfillment of unit
objectives

Strategic plan: (Top level management plan)

It is a long-term plan and includes the development of overall organizational goals and objectives taking into consideration external environmental factors that affect the operations on a long-term basis (5-10 years).

Tactical plan: (Middle level management plan)

- It is concerned with the implementation of the strategic plan. It is usually encompassing (1-3 years). They are more specific & concrete than strategic plans.

Operational plan: (First level management plan)

It is concerned with the efficient, day-to-day use of resources allocated to the unit and directed towards the fulfillment of unit objectives.

Characteristics of an effective plan. The effective plan should

- 1. Be made on clearly defined objectives.
- 2. Be logical, simple, clear and balanced.
- 3. Have stability while providing for flexibility.
- 4. It is essential to meet emergencies or changing situations.
- 5. Be realistic and economical (use available resources).
- 6. Anticipates and forecast the future.

Steps of planning

Planning tools and Hierarchy:

Cont.

Vision:

It is a mental image or the power of imagination to see something that is not actually visible. It is an image without great details.

Values:

It is the worth, usefulness, or importance of something. Core values are things do not change. Values drive how people truly act in organization.

Mission:

It is brief statement for identifying the reason that an organization exist as well as its future aim or function. It is different from organization to another.

Cont.

- Philosophy:

It is a statement of beliefs, values, attitudes, principles and concepts that provides personnel with a common and consistent sense of action?

- Purposes of philosophy:

- 1. It provides the basic beliefs, values and principles.
- 2. It tells personnel how they should act.
- 3. It explains why personnel should direct their energies towards the achievement or accomplishment of the specific objectives.

Cont.

Nursing service department philosophy:

It is a written statement of philosophy that states how nurse managers believe that the purpose will be achieved.

Nursing philosophy consists of beliefs about person, environment, life, health, illness, nurse-patient relationship and nursing care. It is derived from the hospital philosophy.

Cont.

- Goals:

It is a general statement for giving direction for what the organization seeks to accomplish (desired outcome).

Objectives:

It is a specific measurable action indicating what is to be done by an individual employee?

Cont.

Objectives should be SMART:

Specific & Simple

Measurable

Applicable

Relevant & determining who is responsible for achieving it.

Timed (has timelines).

Cont.

Policies:

It is a general statement that has been formalized by administrative authority to guide actions in accomplishing the objectives of the organization.

Purposes of policies:

- 1. Provide information for decision-making.
- 2. Aid in solving recurrent problems.
- 3. Create standard-operating procedures among organizational units.
- 4. Promote efficiency, safety and consistency in accomplishing tasks, i.e. policy manual.
- 5. Guide in performance evaluation.

Sources of policies:

Policies are established through extensive consultation and derived from several sources:

- 1. Philosophy of the organization and its desired objectives.
- 2. Top level management.
- 3. Middle level management (assistant directors and supervisory personnel).
- 4. Externally imposed policy such as government control (outside the organization).

Types of policies

- 1. Personnel policies.
- 2. Departmental policies (regulations).
- 3. Financial policies.

1. Personnel policies:

Are concerned with all the hospital personnel and include:

- Personnel employment policies e.g. hiring new employees, promotion of the present employees, Termination of present employees and retirement.
- Arrangement of work e.g. hours of work. Vacations, holidays, sick leaves and absence and working conditions.
- Employees services e.g. health care programs, social and recreational activities, safety programs, health insurance, pension, housing and Reward and compensation policy.
- Training policy: e.g. purpose of training, type of training needed, time and place for the conduction of training, authorized scope of training program, and administration and scheduling of the training program.

Advantages of personnel policies:

- 1. Useful in the orientation of the employees.
- 2. Save time & efforts of the employees as well as administrators.
- 3. Provide employees with information that help them to provide high quality service and to remain with the organization.
- 4. Give employees a sense of security and individual worth.
- 5. Give employees pride in and loyalty to the organization.

2. Departmental policies (regulations):

Are specific personnel policies that are applied only to a specific department or individual positions, e.g. nursing service policies manual?

Nursing service department policies manual:

This manual can be developed for overall departmental policies, procedures and information related to nursing administration and professional components of nursing care. It may:

- 1. Describe the structure, function and organization of the nursing department.
- 2. Identify current departmental administrative and clinical nursing practice, policies and procedures that are applicable to nursing department.
- 3. Duty hours and its rotation.
- 4. Reporting & recording system applied.
- 5. Type of uniforms.
- 6. Staff education.
- 7. Identify current hospital and medical staff policies and procedures related specifically to nursing.

3. Financial policies:

Are concerned with all the hospital finance (money), and include:

- Sources of capital budget.
- Uses of capital budget.
- Protection of capital budget.
- Distribution of earnings.

Principles to be considered in formulating policies:

- 1. Policies should be stated in written form.
- 2. The policy statement should be definite, positive, clear, and available and understood to everyone in the organization.
- 3. Policies should be fair and unbiased.
- 4. The purpose of the policy should be clear and briefly expressed.
- 5. Policies must be realistic and based on facts in order to be effective.
- 6. Policies should be flexible enough to meet future changes.
- 7. The duties and responsibilities of each individual affected by the policy should be completely outlined.
- 8. Policies should be communicated to those affected.
- 9. Policies should be revised periodically.

Cont. Planning tools and Hierarchy

- Procedures:-

Are series of steps in a chronological sequence of required action, they describe in detail the exact manner in which certain activities or actions must be accomplished, e.g. procedure would prescribe the manner of applying vocation to avoid interruption of work.

It includes the following:

- 1. Statement of objective.
- 2. Determination of who is going to perform the activity.
- 3. Supplies and equipment required.
- 4. Methods of communication.
- 5. Criteria for performance.

Cont.

Advantages of Procedures:- :

Written procedures promote efficiency, safety and consistency in accomplishing tasks.

Rules:

Statements that describe specific action taken or not to be taken with respect to the situation, e.g., no smoking is allowed in the room where oxygen is being administered.

