

Motivation

- Provide Participants with Knowledge, Skills And & Positive Attitude Toward motivation.

OBJECTIVE

TEXTSTUDIO

- At the end of this lecture, all participants will be able to:

1. Define motivation.
2. Differentiate between types of motivation.
3. Apply motivation in our work & life.
4. Have a positive attitude towards motivation.

Definition of Motivation

- is the power and direction of behaviour and factors that influence human behaviour in certain ways.
- It is the individual internal process that energizes, directs, and sustains behavior; the personal "force" that causes us to behave in a particular way.
- The extent to which persistent effort is directed toward a goal.

So, motivation:

- Energizes people to act
- Moves you from a resting state to an active state.
- Directs behaviour & organizes it towards a particular goal-state.
- Maintains behaviour until the goal is achieved.

Why to Motivate?

- 1 To drive individuals to achieve.
2. To help individuals work more efficiently.
3. To build morale.
4. To help individuals produce better results.

Motivation as a process:

It is a process by which a person's efforts are energized, directed and sustained towards attaining the goal.

Types of motivations:

- Extrinsic:

1. Bounces. 2. Use of company car. 3. Gift certificates. 4. Training opportunities.

- Intrinsic:

1. Are specific to individual.
2. Personal satisfaction.
3 Cultural and religious.

The effects of motivation on work:

1. Working condition:

Working conditions that increase job involvement, motivation, and satisfaction include:

1. Work provides a sense of meaningfulness.
2. Employees have control over part of work.
3. Tasks are varied.
- 4 Company maintains clear and consistent rules.
- 5 Employees have supportive relationships with superiors and co-workers.
- 6 Employees receive useful feedback.
7. Company offers opportunities for growth.

2. Opportunities to achieve:

When person lacks fair chance to make it, he or she may be less than successful.

How to motivate?

- 1 Identify individual's type (extrinsic, intrinsic).
2. Empower to participate in project plan (team building).
3. Communicate the goals of the project.
4. Assign responsibility.
5. Perks such as gift certificates, "employee of month", "Great job", "well done".

Motivation strategies:

Motivational strategies to create a workplace and to develop policies and practices that will higher levels of employee performance. These include the growth of the total reward system and performance management process, design motivational and leadership development programs.

