

Directing

Directing is a key managerial function

DIRECTING

Introduction:

- Directing is a management function which plays a pivotal role in ensuring that organizational plans are put into action through directing the work of subordinates by the managers. It encourages leadership, motivation, and communication techniques and emphasizes the human aspects of managing individuals and teams to carry out tasks and activities in alignment with the organization's overall strategy
- Directing is the initiation and maintenance of action toward the desired objectives which can be fostered by nursing administrators who desire to improve their directing activities. It is the process of applying the management plans to accomplish nursing objectives through telling subordinates what to do, so the manager must ensure that the subordinates know what to do, how to do, when to do and why they do it.

Definition of directing:

Directing is a crucial component of the management process of guiding, supervising, and influencing employees and resources within an organization to achieve its goals and objectives effectively and efficiently.

Purpose of directing:

To channel the behavior of all personnel to accomplish the organizations mission and objectives and helping them accomplish their own career objectives.

Importance of directing:

- Effective directing increases subordinates contributions to achievement of nursing management goals.
- Effective directing creates harmony between nursing management goals and nursing workers goals.
- Effective directing is the management functions where in the nurse manager acts as a facilitator and coach.

Elements of directing:1- Supervision:

- Supervision involves providing guidance and direction to the work in order to achieve a certain purpose.

2- Leadership:

- Leadership plays an important role in directing, as it refer to influence others in a manner to do what the leader wants them to do. Leadership is about getting people to understand and believe in the leader vision and to work with him to achieve his goals.

3-Motivation:

- Motivation is forces that inspire a person at work to intensify his willingness to use the best of his capability for achievement of specific objectives. Motivation refers to that process which excites people to work for attainment of the desired objective.

- It may be in the form of incentives like financial (such as bonus, commission etc.) or, non-financial (such as appreciation, growth etc.), or it could be positive or negative.

Application of directing by the nurse manager:

1-Whatever the management level, the nurse manager apply directing through the following points according to their span of control.

2- Lead the nursing personnel by using suitable leadership style.

3- Act as a role model.

4-Delegate authority down the line of the nursing hierarchy.

5-Supervise the nursing personnel during their work.

6- Create the environment that is conducive to work.

7- Use the method of assignment that appropriate to the patients' numbers, acuity level, and the nurses' competency level.

8- Supervise the communication flow in the organization.

9- Create a defined communication channels.

10- Resolve the nurses' conflict through using appropriate mechanism.

11- Create the learning experience that helps to improve the nurse performance.